CONGRESS ANSWERS EXECUTIVE'S DEMAND FOR EXTRA SESSION

Sixty-second Congress Assembled at Noon Today, Ready to Take Up Reciprocity. First Act Was to Elect a Successor to Joseph G. Cannon--Democrats in Control.

CHAMP CLARK MADE SPEAKER

Republicans Vote For Representative Mann, Who Now Becomes Minority Floor Leader — Last November's Landslide Makes Many Changes in Rollcall—In Addition to Making Trade Agreement With Canada the Tariff Will Be Tinkered With.

Washington, April 4.—In response to President Taft's call for a special session to take action on the proposed trade agreement with Canada, the sixty-second congress convened at noon today.

The first action taken in the house was the election of Champ Clark of Missouri as speaker in succession to Joseph Cannon of Illinois. Vice President Sherman presided in the senate.

pea of New York. All of these changes represent democratic gains except in the case of Rhode Island. There will be an abundance of important public business to occupy the attention of the national legislators.

The session, called specifically for the purpose of enacting into law the reciprocity agreement entered into between the executives of this country and the Dominion of Canada, will become but a corollary to the great business of the revision of the whole or at least important schedules of the existing tariff law.

The Mexican situation has been precipitated with such suddenness that the leaders of both parties are at a loss to know whether the present excursion of 20,000 soldiers of the United States army and a big section of the navy is simply "maneuvers" as the war department insists, is a demonstration in force for the purpose of aweing the uneasy Mexicans, or the beginning of a new policy toward our nearest southern neighbor.

Taft Writes His Message

Washington, April 4. — President Taft this morning began the task of writing his special message to congress. It will be exceedingly brief, dealing only with reciprocity. It will be sent to the senate and house tomorrow.

Drys Lose Ground

Anti-Saloon League Worsted in Michigan Elections.

Detroit, Mich., April 4.—The Anti-saloon league was thoroughly beaten in the wet and dry elections in Michigan. Total of dry counties is now 38, a loss of two for the dries. Every big county went wet and those dry counties which stayed dry did so by greatly reduced majorities. Forty-five counties wet have a total population of 1,978,764, and the 38 dry counties have only 880,185 inhabitants.

Policeman Shot by Rioters.

Chicago, April 4.—Patrolman J. J. McGuire was shot and probably fatally wounded while attempting to end a fight between union labor factions disputing over work on a new office building in the downtown district.

Heads of the Appropriations Committees In the New Congress

In the senate, where the Republicans have a majority, Senator Francis Emory Warren of Wyoming was chosen to head the important committee on appropriations. Representative John Joseph Fitzgerald of New York was the choice of the Democratic majority in the house for chairman of that body's similar committee. There was some opposition to Fitzgerald at first, but it was quickly dissolved. He is extremely popular with his associates.

SOLON FRANCIS LEAPS INTO THE LIMELIGHT

Successor to Hollingsworth Makes Himself Quickly Known by Objecting to Party Program and Questioning the Steps Taken on Pretext of Economy.

OBJECTS TO PARTY PROGRAM

Resigns From Committee to Which He Was Assigned and in Letter to Chairman Underwood Declares That Democrats Committed Grievous Error in Firing Minor Officials and Permitting "Lame Ducks" to Retain Sinicures.

Washington, April 4.—The first note of discord in the Democratic ranks was sounded by Representative W. B. Francis, successor to David Hollingsworth of the Sixteenth Ohio district. He sent a letter to Representative Underwood, chairman of the committee on committees, resigning from his committee assignment and criticizing Mr. Underwood and his colleagues because of the character of their economy program. Here is the letter:

"My Dear Sir—I hereby tender my resignation as a member of the committee on alcoholic liquor traffic. While but one of the assignments given me is in accordance with my expressed wishes, I appreciate the many difficulties your committee had to contend with in the performance of its complex duties, and therefore I have no complaint to make; however, I fail to see the wisdom of your recommendation for the abolition of some of the minor positions in the house organization. For 16 years taxpayers of the country have borne this burden and apparently they have done so without protest. Economy in public expenditures is one of the cardinal principles of the Democratic party, and I am heartily in favor of making good that profession of party faith, not, however, by the abolishment of a few positions where the laboring men are employed, but in the elimination of highly-paid useless commissions created solely for the care and comfort of lame ducks."

"Had your committee indicated a desire to economize along these lines, its recommendations would be met with enthusiastic approval, and had your committee gone further and recommended an increase in the salaries of the many underpaid employees of the government and followed that declaration with the recommendation that the salaries of members of congress be reduced, I think real enthusiasm would be manifested by the public generally over the induction of a Democratic congress."

party, and I am heartily in favor of making good that profession of party faith, not, however, by the abolishment of a few positions where the laboring men are employed, but in the elimination of highly-paid useless commissions created solely for the care and comfort of lame ducks."

Cox Appears in Court and Furnishes New Bond.

Cincinnati, O., April 4.—George B. Cox, after three days' absence, following the return of a fresh indictment charging him with perjury, appeared in court, but refused to state where he has been or why. Bond was furnished in the sum of $1,000. Leo H. Brooks signed the bond and soon thereafter Mr. Cox left the courthouse.

Madero Is Wanted At Peace Confab

Friends Seek to Have Warrant Held Up.

El Paso, Tex., April 4.—Francisco I. Madero, head of the Mexican insurrection, has not been heard from on the peace question. The visit of his father and brother to El Paso is for a conference with him if it can be arranged. The United States department of justice is to be asked to waive the warrant which it has for the arrest of Madero on a charge of fomenting a revolution against Mexico on American soil. If this can be done, Madero could then come here for a meeting with his father and brother and with representatives of the Mexican government.

Meantime, a request would be made upon the Mexican government to guarantee the protection of the provisional president en route through Chihuahua to El Paso and return to his troops. Such a guarantee, it is declared, could be secured by certain Americans of El Paso who are close to officials in Chihuahua and Mexico City.

If the peace negotiations fail, it is said Diaz has made arrangements to place 3,000 rurales in the field, highly paid men, selected where possible from among mountaineers, who now form most of the insurrectionary army, and as an El Pasoan expressed it, "these rurales will ride out and they will just bury the insurgents wherever they find one."

Corral Tenders Resignation.

Mexico City, April 4.—The resignation of Vice President Corral was presented to congress to take effect immediately. Coincident with the resignation of Senator Corral is the announcement that Governor Dehesa of the state of Vera Cruz has resigned.

Salvador Madero Released.

Laredo, Tex., April 4.—Salvador Madero, the brother of Francisco I. Madero, Sr., and uncle of the provisional president of Mexico, who was arrested upon his arrival in Nuevo Laredo, across the river, in Mexican territory, was released. His release came upon order from the City of Mexico.

HOGAN IS ACCOMMODATING

Columbus, O., April 4.—Attorney General Hogan announced that John S. McNutt of Salem, former clerk of the supreme court, would be accommodated in his desire for a suit to determine whether or not he did right in accepting a 10 per cent commission on all printing of records and briefs.

Cetone Proposes May 11 as Adjournment Date

BILL AIMED AT JUDGE BLAIR

Senator Hudson Presents One to Generalynder Southern Ohio Judicial Districts to Remove Scioto County From Vote Bribe Prober's Jurisdiction — Penitentiary Investigators Get Draft of Bill For Prison Farm Which Will Be Introduced at Once.

Columbus, O., April 4.—Realizing that it will be impossible for the legislature to complete its work and adjourn by May 1, Senator Cetone of Montgomery introduced a resolution to adjourn on April 28 to May 11, the latter to be the date of final adjournment.

Speaker Vining of the house, who some weeks ago set April 29 as a tentative date for adjournment, now admits that the fulfillment of that date is impossible. He said that even the appointment of a steering committee would not be taken up until the finance committee could be heard from. And it is learned that the finance committee can't possibly get through before May 1.

While in Washington last week he made some inquiry concerning the probable action of congress on the matter of congressional apportionment, and gives it as his opinion that nothing will be done in the matter—at least not within two months—and the speaker is of the opinion that the legislature would better pass a redistricting bill based on the 21 district apportionment for this state and adjourn.

Then in case such an apportionment law is passed at Washington, no special session of the legislature will be necessary. Speaker Vining thinks the chances are that an apportionment making an increase in the membership of the national house will ultimately be adopted. In the event that Ohio is granted an extra congression, he can be elected at large.

Of the two branches, the house is much farther advanced in its work than the senate. The big appropriation bills are yet to be acted upon. To expedite matters, the house decided to have a calendar committee appointed.

To Change Districts.

Senator Hudson of Scioto county introduced a bill to transfer Adams county back to the first subdivision of the Fifth judicial district. It is now a part of the third subdivision of the Seventh district. If passed the bill would eliminate Judge Blair from Scioto county.

Bills were introduced in both the house and senate providing for the use of penitentiary prisoners at the quarry adjoining the grounds of the Columbus State hospital.

A draft of the bill to provide for the erection of a new farm prison was submitted to the Freiner penitentiary probe committee this morning, and if approved, will be introduced in the senate late today or tomorrow by Senator Reynolds.

There was an echo of the wet and dry question in the house when Representative Fulkerson of Muskingum county introduced a resolution providing for a commission to inquire into the condition of cities much of whose revenues have been cut off by the elimination of saloons.

Cut Rate Drugs Upheld.

Washington, April 4.—The attempt to put the ban on "cut rates" in proprietary medicines in this country received the unqualified disapproval of the supreme court of the United States. That tribunal declined, in an opinion by Justice Hughes, to give its aid to such an attempt, on the ground that it would afford the manufacturers of medicine an unlawful monopoly.

LOCAL OPTION IN WOMAN SUFFRAGE.

A bill passed by the senate of the Illinois legislature on Thursday provides a means whereby the voters of any political district in that state, choosing to do so, may decide at any time whether women shall be granted the right of suffrage. This may be brought about by application of the local option method. If the city of Chicago votes for suffrage at a referendum, for instance, then the women of Chicago, after qualifying and registering as men must, will be entitled to vote on all municipal questions and for all municipal officers. Likewise, if a county votes aye, the women of that county will be privileged to exercise the full rights of citizenship. The method may be extended to the whole state, and if the state votes favorably, then the women of Illinois will all be enfranchised.

The house must act upon this measure and the governor must approve it before it becomes a law. But it may be said that the bill offers a solution of the problem of woman suffrage that must appeal to sensible, practical and fair minded people. If it be adopted by Illinois and fairly tested there, other states that have not yet been able to see their way of dealing satisfactorily with the question will undoubtedly enact similar legislation.

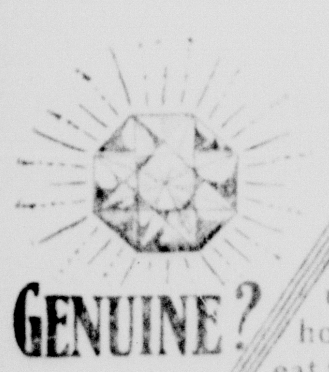

One of the best features of the method proposed by this measure is that it leaves the question open to be decided at any time. If a political district is not ready to pass upon it, it need not. If it is ready, the opportunity is at hand. If the proposition is defeated because the sentiment of the male voters has yet been educated up to the point of recognizing advantage as well as justice in granting the franchise to women, then, on the filing of a properly signed petition, it can be again voted upon. Moreover, this method enables the man who favors granting the privilege of voting to women in home affairs and not in state affairs to register his choice. Apparently, it gives opportunity to voters of all shades of opinion on this subject and it may be acceptable to all advocates of suffrage.

The fact that the senate of the Illinois legislature has passed this bill is one of independent significance sufficient to arrest the attention of thoughtful people. It is, however, only another of the many straws that in our time indicate the direction of the political wind. Old prejudices are being rapidly blown away by the force of an uplifted and powerful public opinion.—Christian Science Monitor.

THE BEATEN PATH.

In these days of safe and sane business-like advertising, the people have learned with unerring judgment to classify mercantile commodities, as to being genuine or shoddy, by the kind of advertising which is adopted to attract the attention of the buying public.

People these days read advertisements in reputable and recognized advertising mediums, and they act upon the impression which these advertisements make upon them. They have long since become "wise" to the faker's methods and many men in business even are not aware of this important fact. The buying public has become accustomed to look for the reputable merchant's bargains in recognized and reputable channels and steadfastly refuses to be led away into false paths traveled by those who have not real merit to recommend their offerings.

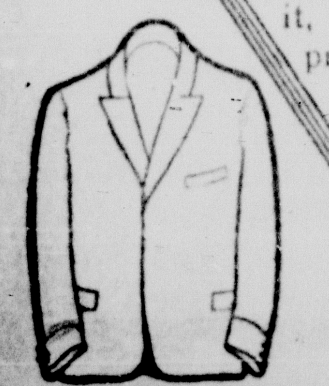

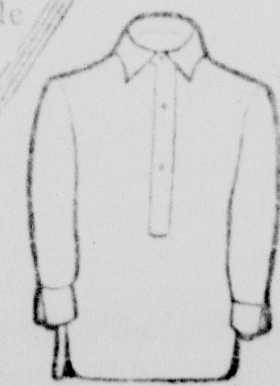

GENUINE?

PASTE?

All of us don't wear diamonds. All of us do wear clothes, however. All of us do eat food. You can buy diamonds by mail order, but you are not always sure of getting the real thing. Look out for pastes! The thing that corresponds to paste diamonds in the matter of clothing and furniture is called shoddy. When you buy a suit of clothes or a piece of dress goods by mail you are just as likely as not to get shoddy instead of the real goods. When you see the goods on the counter you can turn them over, get the "feel" of them, know that you are getting wool when you ask for wool and not cotton. A bargain is not something that is merely cheap in price; it is something you want, of the quality you want, obtained just when you want it, and at a reasonable price. BUY AT HOME, WHERE YOU CAN SEE WHAT YOU ARE BUYING.

POETRY FOR TODAY

ONCE IN A WHILE

Once in a while the sun shines out,
And the arching skies are a perfect blue;
Once in a while, 'mid clouds of doubt,
Hope's fairest stars come peeping through;
Our paths lead down to the meadows fair,
Where the sweetest blossoms nod and smile,
And we lay aside our cross of care,
Once in a while.

Once in a while within our own
We clasp the hand of a steadfast friend;
Once in a while we hear a tone
Of love, with the heart's own voice to blend;
And the dearest of all our dreams come true,
And on life's way is a golden mile,
Each thrilling flower is kissed with dew,
Once in a while.

Once in a while in the desert sands
We find a spot of the fairest green;
Once in a while from where we stand
The hills of Paradise are seen;
And a perfect joy in our hearts we hold,
A joy that the world can not deny;
We trade earth's dross for the purest gold,
Once in a while.

CORNER IN 3 CENT PIECES.

The Involuntary Work of a Dime Slot Machine Company.

The disappearance of the three-cent piece has for many years been a matter of mild speculation. Few persons are aware that a large proportion of the coins of this denomination which remained in circulation when the Government stopped issuing them are peacefully slumbering in sandy large fat canvas bags in the vaults of a certain electrical manufacturing company of Chicago. They are not for sale just yet.

Each of the coins is an evidence of petty avarice.
Years ago the company equipped many tele. one pay stations with dime slot machines. It was supposed that they could be worked only with dimes. The three-cent pieces were becoming rare and no thought was taken of them.

Hardly six months passed before one of the telephone companies discovered that the collectors were yielding a harvest of three-cent pieces. Then from all over the country came similar complaints.

Each company forwarded the pieces to the manufacturing company and more or less politely asked that a corresponding number of dimes or a check for an equivalent amount be sent back in exchange.

A council was held at the office of the manufacturing company. The cost of correcting the boxes was compared with fairly trustworthy information of the number of three-cent pieces in circulation. It was found that a balance was in favor of the three-cent and it was decided to accept the pieces as dimes.

Gradually the import of three-cent pieces narrowed down to an intermittent current. The company seemed to have about all the pieces.

It is said that it ever the premium on three-cent pieces goes high enough the coins will be offered to collectors at prices based upon the original cost to the company, plus 5 per cent a year, plus cost of storage, plus cost of guarding, plus cost of carrying the fund upon the books. Long ago the slot machines that collected them were relegated to the scrap heap.

Arthur Draise Makes Escape From Asylum in Columbus

Walked Away From the Institution on Tuesday Last and Completely Disappeared--Officials Ask for His Arrest and Police Have Looked in Vain. Not Thought That Draise Will Return to This City.

Arthur Draise has escaped from the State Hospital at Columbus and there is no clue whatever to his whereabouts.

This news is not surprising to those who knew that he filled the position of stenographer in the front office of the hospital with full privilege to go and come as he pleased.

The escape was made last Tuesday when the superintendent of the asylum at once notified Chief of Police Devaney to watch for him here and if he was found to arrest him at once and they would send for him.

The news has been kept quiet owing to the fact that so many are afraid of him, and, while probably their fears are groundless, the community might be agitated to a greater or lesser extent. The police have been keeping a sharp lookout and are certain that young Draise has not put in an appearance here. There has not been found a trace of him and there is no idea even as to which direction he took.

It is possible that he has joined his mother in Pittsburgh, as she has been unfaithful in her attempts to obtain the release of her son and have him with her.

The police do not think that he will ever return to this city.

For some time young Draise, who is a very capable stenographer, has been a trusty and doing stenographic work in the front office of the hospital. The last time Deputy Sheriff Nelson had occasion to take a patient to the asylum, Arthur registered him, and when he left accompanied him to the car track, between two and three blocks away. It would have been the easiest thing in the world for him to have kept on going and never returned. He seemed in good spirits and to have all the liberty possible.

The surveillance of the local police will not be relaxed and should the young man arrive here he will be taken into custody at once.

Young Draise was taken to the State Hospital several months ago, after an extended trial that was of unusual interest.

Owing to actions which had aroused apprehension among the timid, Mayor Allen had ordered him to leave town, and the young man at first complied with the request. However he returned almost immediately and was then arrested upon an affidavit of lunacy, filed by Chief Devaney. He was confined in the county jail during his trial, and conducted his own defense largely, refusing to leave it to legal representatives entirely. During the entire trial he took down all testimony in short hand and displayed an unusual amount of cleverness.

The trial resulted in his being ordered committed to the State Hospital, where he was immediately conducted, and where in a short time he became what is commonly known as a "trusty."

Strange to say young Draise never seemed to resent the action of Mayor Allen, Devaney or the sheriff, and parted with them on the best of terms.

Whenever Sheriff Nelson or Deputy Ol Nelson has visited the hospital they have had friendly chats with Arthur and he has seemed glad to see them.

The case is one of the most unusual and distressing that has occurred in this community for years.

Mr. Draise, as a young fellow had an exceptionally bright mind, which he taxed in hard study and led to a nervous breakdown. His family insist that he is entirely sane and are very indignant over his trial and commitment. There is no doubt that in many ways he is clever and bright but his eccentric actions were so entirely out of the ordinary that the community felt better satisfied after his removal.

CHANGE OF SCHEDULE ROUSES CITIZENS' IRE

South Charleston Enters Strenuous Objection to Baker Road, Because New Schedule Fails to Meet With General Approval--Threaten to Produce Franchise Agreements and Urge Better Accommodations.

It seems that the Springfield & Washington traction line, better known as the Baker road, has unintentionally touched a sensitive spot in South Charleston, the southern terminus of the road, by a change of schedule which took effect Saturday.

Concerning the change, the Charleston Sentinel says: "If any one event in the history of this community in recent times has caused more genuine dissatisfaction and indignation on the part of the public generally it is the arbitrary action of the Springfield & Washington Traction Company in the change in its schedule which takes effect April first."

Not a soul who depends upon the traction line for transportation to and from Springfield but feels that the change will work a hardship on the residents of South Charleston. The car at 5:30 leaves here entirely too early to be of any convenience to those who depend upon this service. We have quite a number of young men attending business college in Springfield, and several of our young women are employed in Springfield industries, and the fact that they can have a convenient transportation service makes it possible for them to stay at home here and still retain their positions in the village.

Much adverse comment has been occasioned by the change in time of the last car out of Springfield from 11 o'clock to 9, and inquiry has developed no further excuse than that the car didn't pay. It may be that the car does not pay, but what public utility organization does not have to do not one thing, but a number of things to make their franchise a valuable asset by catering to the public. If there is any season in which the 11 o'clock car ought to pay, it is surely the summer season, when the parks in the city are open, and many of our residents make the round trip to Springfield for an evening's entertainment. As it will be under the new schedule, the evening car arrives at Springfield at 7:45 and leaves there one hour and a quarter after its arrival. Really when it comes to a matter of expense and financial return the traction company might just as well make the 5:30 car the last one for the traffic from Charleston on the 7:00 o'clock car will be so small as to be practically nothing.

Public indignation has reached such a stage that it would not be surprising if council was asked to take steps to determine the standing of the traction company's franchise in the village.

The Visit to Dale's

Every woman in Fayette county should visit Dale's store this spring—if not to buy at least she should come for the ideas it will give her. Everything that could in any way be used toward the bettering of comfort and the advancing of happiness in the home has been placed in stock for the woman's choice. All the odd pieces that will brighten the dark corners are here, and even whole rooms may be furnished with uniform beauty. The genius behind this great furniture and stove business never so fully exerted every effort or exhausted every resource as in the buying of this spring's supply. 'Tis the marvelous outcome of a gigantic effort, and will result in many happy home makings and money savings. You are invited to

Attorney Threatens Editor With Gun

Julius Lorenz, attorney, son of Rev. L. H. Lorenz, Clark county's representative to the General Assembly, entered the editorial rooms of the Springfield Sun, Saturday night, flourished a big gun and made repeated threats that he would kill Editor E. E. Whaley to "get even" for an article which appeared in Saturday's Sun in which young Lorenz was accused of failure to deliver $50 to one of his clients.

After a struggle Lorenz was disarmed, and left the office muttering dire threats against Editor Whaley and others of the Sun office.

An affidavit was immediately filed against Lorenz, charging him with carrying concealed weapons, and Lorenz must face that charge, if not a more serious one. It is alleged that Lorenz failed to turn over $50 to one of his clients, after receiving the amount from the Springfield Railway company, in payment for damages.

C. & M. V. LAYS OFF FIFTEEN EMPLOYEES

Fifteen employees of the C. & M. V. railroad shops in Lancaster were laid off for an indefinite period Saturday morning. This is a result of a recent order issued by the Pennsylvania system, and others will likely be laid off for an uncertain length of time.

In one of the big eastern shops of the Pennsylvania road, 3000 employees were discharged, and it may be months before they are placed upon the pay roll again.

FUNERAL OF MRS. FRANCES POST

Simple funeral services, in harmony with the sincere and quiet nature of the gentle woman who had answered the eternal summons, were conducted over all that was mortal of Mrs. Frances Post, Monday morning at ten o'clock, at the residence on W. Market street.

The home was filled with relatives and friends, especially the older friends who had known and valued Mrs. Post for many years.

Rev. T. W. Locke, of Grace church, officiated, giving personal testimony to the Christian character and beautiful life now ended. There were many lovely flowers sent in last remembrance.

Acting as pallbearers were the nephews, Glenn M. Pine, Bruce Pine, Earl Updegrave, of Cincinnati; grand nephews, Danc Hyer, of Greenfield, and Wm. Irions, and Mrs. J. H. Ellett.

Mrs. Post's sister, Mrs. E. B. Updegrave, of Cincinnati, and the Misses Pine, of Greenfield, came for the services. The burial was in the Washington cemetery.

Cleveland Fight For Open Shop

Employers of 100,000 Agree to Try Los Angeles System.

Cleveland, O., April 4.—Announcement was made by the Employers' Association of Cleveland that a fight will start at once to put Cleveland on an open-shop basis the same as Los Angeles, Cal. Already the association has 600 members, each of whom is an employer of labor, and from the start of the fight 100,000 employees will be affected.

J. P. Hawley, general counsel for the organization, returned from Los Angeles, where he investigated the fight that has been carried on in that city for years against union labor, and announced that his report would be made at once to the local association. It is expected that this report will be made the basis for the beginning of the fight here to make the city an open-shop town.

Milk producers who know it best concede that alfalfa is an invaluable feed in the dairy, closely akin to wheat bran in results, and usually much less expensive, according to Colburn's "The Book of Alfalfa." In the average small town or city there is about one cow for every 10 or 15 people. Therefore, in a town of 1,000 population there will probably be 75 or 100 cows. If alfalfa will increase the quantity of their milk and butter fat, giving a product at a lower cost than the concentrated foods, it should be more used. But as yet it is not generally used, because it is not understood and appreciated.

RADIUM AND GEOLOGY.

The properties of radium have consequences of enormous importance to the geologist as well as to the physicist or chemist. In fact, the discovery of these properties has entirely altered the aspect of one of the most interesting geological problems, that of the age of the earth. Before the discovery of radium it was supposed that the supplies of heat furnished by chemical changes going on in the earth are quite insignificant, and that there was nothing to replace the heat which flows from the hot interior of the earth to the colder crust. Now when the earth first solidified it only possessed a certain amount of capital in the form of heat, and if it is continually spending this capital and not gaining any fresh heat it is evident that the process cannot have been going on for more than a certain number of years. Otherwise the earth would be colder than it is. Lord Kelvin in this way estimated the age of the earth to be less than 100,000,000 years. Though the quantity of radium in the earth is an exceedingly small fraction of the mass of the earth, amounting according to the determination of Profs. Strutt and Joly, to only about five grams in a cube whose side is 100 miles, yet the amount of heat given out by this small quantity of radium is so great that it is more than enough to replace the heat which flows from the inside to the outside of the earth. —Prof. J. J. Thompson, quoted by Science.

GLAZING LIQUID GLASS.

In the glazing of pottery many different mixtures are used. Nearly all of them are composed of one or more of the following articles: Litharge, flint, feldspar, paris white and white clay.

Water glass or liquid glass, as it is sometimes called, is a potassium silicate, prepared by fusing together three parts of silica (sand) and two parts of potassium carbonate with a small quantity of charcoal in an ordinary reverberatory furnace. The product is soluble in four or five parts of boiling water. As it is not affected by ordinary atmospheric changes it is frequently used as a preservative of eggs. As a cement it is known as mineral lime. Other uses are in fireproof and waterproof paint, as an ingredient of soaps and in the manufacturing of earthenware. —Boston Globe.

ENGLAND WILL GET BUSY ON IMMIGRATION

Restrictive Regulations to Be Established for Admission of Aliens.

LONDON (Sp.)—Home secretary Winston Churchill, who runs the police department all over England, has given it out definitely that there are going to be some new restrictive regulations established concerning the admission of aliens into the country.

He has explained that it is impossible to tell yet exactly what will be done but that the general idea is to enlarge the present powers of expulsion and to render the authorities' rights of inspection more effective than at present.

No rule will be established, however, the home secretary added, for the exclusion of political refugees, nor will any system of registration of aliens be established, as in continental countries.

The home secretary's announcement appears on its face to imply that Great Britain is getting tired of being a haven of refuge for political exiles from all over the world.

But this isn't what it really means. It is England's answer to the pressure recently brought to bear upon it to compel Scotland Yard to become a mere section of the international police of Europe.

It is only within two or three years that England has had any trouble with its various colonies of political refugees. It was practically the only country in Europe which gave them shelter and the refugees appreciated it.

They did not propose to lose their one place of refuge and they set their faces resolutely against any act of violence against the British government.

But in spite of the influence of the better class of these men there has been difficulty of late—real Russian terrorist outrages. The English authorities couldn't understand it. Neither could the refugees at first. But the various European revolutionary organizations are more or less international in their character. They did a little investigating and presently they gave the police the benefit of the result of their researches.

The outrages weren't the work of genuine political outlaws, they said, but of ordinary criminals engaged by "agents provocateurs" from Russia and other continental countries to make the British hate the political.

If the object could be accomplished, so the political said, there would be no place for them to be safe in at all, and the despotic rulers of the countries they were forced to flee from could hunt them down and exterminate them at their leisure.

The home office evidently accepted this information as true. At any rate it is not going to be allowed into joining the rest of Europe in the war upon men whose only crime, as the English see it, is resistance to the oppression of their despotic governments. But it does intend to see a little more discrimination in future.

In fact, the English are rather proud of their exiles. "Vladimir, Montagu, Albert and Casper did not run away from their own countries," says the Times, in a discussion of the record. "They came to England as to a warm friend and never forgot the duty which they owed to us."

CURSE OF THE TELEPHONE

WHEN we reflect on the modern conveniences that we enjoy, and how better off we are than our forefathers, we always begin the list of our blessings with the telephone.

"Only think of poor dear great-grandmother," we say, with pity in our voices, "she never had a telephone." And then, as the sharp ring of a bell interrupts our sympathy, we exclaim, "first that telephone!" and a passing thought crosses our mind that if a grandmother didn't have a telephone, neither did she acquire nervous prostration, having to answer one.

Of course we couldn't do without the telephone now. It is as much a necessity as food and drink, as a house and clothes; but if ever there was a good thing that led to evil's side, a convenient inconvenience, a mixed blessing that was half a curse, it is that same telephone.

Oh, I know all that you can say in its favor. I've said the same thing a thousand times. I am perfectly aware, that you couldn't carry on business, or society, or get married, or commit murder without the assistance of the telephone.

But, say, have you many friends who are the "friendly possessors" of telephones with unlimited calls? You have? Then come and mingle your tears with mine. You know what it is to suffer.

Of a morning you have ten thousand things to do, each of them pressing, important, and have to be done on schedule time. You summon up your energy, roll up your sleeves, and sail into the day's work with a fine chance of getting through. At least, you would have a chance of getting through if it were not for the telephone; but in the midst of your busiest moment comes the ringing of the telephone bell.

You dare not refuse to answer it, for it may mean a proposal of marriage, or that somebody wants to leave you a million dollars, or that your house is on fire, or your husband has been run over by an automobile, so you drop whatever you are doing and go to the telephone.

Alas, your worst fears are confirmed. It is Mrs. A., with an accused unlimited telephone, and she talks and talks and talks, you stand glued to the receiver until you are ready to drop with fatigue. You shift your weight from one foot to the other, and still she talks. You lean against the wall for support and still she talks. You grow frantic with exasperation at the time you are losing listening to her piffle and still she talks.

The babbling brook, that went on and on forever, was tacked to the post compared to the woman with an unlimited telephone call. For the brook can be frozen up in cold, but even though you throw a forty-degree below-zero temperature into your cold, it doesn't even stop the conversational powers of a woman at the other end of a wire that can get on for the year. She can get on for the year, the telephone company, even if all sacrifices were made of her, peace, and desired tranquility.

The woman with the telephone, light and heavy, never rests, but hangs Mrs. A. in a state of constant complaint and as for taking a little rest, that thing that would make any woman, on her understanding, would be a thing unheard of. Apparently she takes a little rest in talking, but up at the psychological moment when you are dropping off to sleep for an afternoon nap, or when you are just sitting down to dinner.

It doesn't make any difference in the world, you see, how your sleep is getting cold, and the family waiting for you, or that you are being torn away from your guests, for a woman who is infatuated with telephonic life is oblivious to other people's rights and claims in their sufferings. All that she wants to do is just to talk, though she never has anything to say. But telephonic affects her as a glass of seltzer does a confirmed drinkard. She can't talk fast enough.

If the telephone is a vice, with ladies, it spells simply doom, a situation for grief, and if I had a young daughter, I would not more have a sleep in the house and let her use it, than I would give her a loaded pistol to play with.

It is the telephone that we may even attribute the decline in gallantry among modern young men, for it is the common habit of young women to pester young men to death by calling them up over the phone.

If you could hear the way that young ladies call up men over the phone, and just simply beg and plead with them to come to see them, and if you could hear the mushy stuff that these girls talk over the phone to young men, it would make you sick," said a Central to me once, and then she asked, "What makes them do it? I don't believe they would say those things to men if they were face to face with them. What makes them talk silliness over the wire when so many people can hear it?"

I couldn't answer her, but I knew that she spoke the truth, for I have known more than one young man who lost his job because he spent too much time to answer telephone calls from girls.

Of course the telephone is with us to stay. We couldn't do without it. But won't somebody please start a Woman's Christian Temperance Telephone movement and direct its missionary efforts especially toward the woman who has an unlimited telephone call?

THE WORLD OF WOMEN

SACRIFICING SELF FOR THE CHILDREN

Women Should Bear Much Before Seeking Legal Freedom.

How much must a woman bear before she seeks her legal freedom to the divorce courts? How many times must she try to reclaim a husband whose love has been given to another woman? Two very big and very serious questions, aren't they? Yet they have been given to me to answer by a wife whose despairing letter reveals the tragedy of a woman whose pride is up in arms, yet who for the sake of her children is anxious to hold her home together. "I have been married for eight long years," she says, "and I have tried to be a good wife and mother, but now things have reached the point where I feel as if divorce was a necessity, as if I could bear no more, and yet I do not believe in leaving a man after you have married him for better or for worse. "Then, too, there are the children. Has a mother, do you think, the right to deprive her children of their father's care just because she is unhappy? "Of course there is another woman; it must always be a three-cornered tragedy, mustn't it? For five years I was as happy as a woman could be; my little son and daughter came and my husband seemed well content at home. "Then he met this other woman. I do not think she was more than a casual friend at first, but now he is always with her; he has cut my allowance way down in order to spend money on her, and because he knows, or thinks that he knows, I have too much pride to seek legal redress he has given up all pretense of living his life for her. "Oh, is there anything I can do? Is it worth while to try to win back a man who has proved himself unworthy? Please give me some advice." Advice—oh, it is so easy to give it and so hard to take, and there are so many points of view of this mighty custom of divorce that I hardly know where to begin. Is it worth while to try to win him back? Yes, it is always worth while to do anything—to give up pride and personal feelings entirely to keep a home together where there are little children. "Don't you think so? Don't you believe, too, all you women who have faced this question, that the man can be made to see this point of view? There are but few men, however, such they may strain against marital bonds, who are really indifferent to an appeal made through their sons and daughters who must fall under the mantle of shame if divorce divides the home. "Then, too, the infatuation for another woman is seldom real love; it is merely a passing fancy, a stream of passion that flows into continual companionship with the other woman, a companionship born of his own misery if his home is closed to him. I know that is a difficult point of view to see. Perhaps it is a wrong one, yet I cannot but feel that many wrecked homes might have been kept together if the wife had been brave enough and strong enough to remember only the happy years and not the unkindness of later days. Divorce is always cruel to a woman, no matter how innocent she may be, for it flings a stain upon her life that nothing can remove and leaves a shadow over her children's name. After all it is the children who must be first taken into consideration. If the mother leaves, gives up what seems the hopeless task of trying to win the respect and the loyalty, even if not the love, of her husband, how after is she able to support them?

It's hard to think of arduous questions of money when heart and soul are torn with bitterness and grief, yet such questions must be faced. Divorce at the present time is a menace that has thrown its shadow over hundreds and hundreds of homes in America. Stop and think of what it must have meant to all the little children concerned, the pitiful little ones who are divided in their love and loyalty, who cannot understand and yet must be the ones to suffer. But all this does not answer the question of how much a woman should bear, does it? And the only answer that I know is—as much as she can and as long as she can, if there are children to be thought of. Italian Macaroni To cook macaroni in the Neapolitan fashion use a large kettle and plenty of boiling salt water. Cook unbroken lengths of macaroni hard 20 minutes, drain, and arrange macaroni in full length onto a long platter. For the sauce thicken two cups strained tomato juice with two tablespoons flour rubbed into two tablespoons butter; add celery salt and onion juice to taste, and four tablespoons grated cheese. Make sauce just before serving, or cheese will harden. Turn sauce over macaroni, and serve very hot. The gross earnings of the railroad for this country for 1908 of $2,448,835,000 were nearly double those of 1905. Butter Cookies Stir very foamy one cup of butter, one-half cup of sugar, one whole egg and two yolks; then add two cups of finely sifted flour, flavor with almond extract. Let the dough rest for an hour, covered, and in a cool place. Then take out one floured baking board and cut out small cookies. Brush with white of egg, and sprinkle with granulated sugar. Bake a very light golden brown, on floured tin.

SMALL WRIST BAGS ARE NOW MUCH IN FAVOR

Wrist bags, after growing steadily bigger until men jested at the amount of baggage women carried about them, now come quite small again. Velvet and satin, which had been completely superseded by leather, have returned to favor for these little bags, or large purses, as you may choose to regard them. They are also covered with material to match the gown with which they are carried. Cord handles, cord trimmings, finished with knots or tassels, give the bags their more modish name of cordeliers.

Glaze Dried Fruits

For these you need to buy the French candied fruit; you may also use peach figs or tomato figs if you have them. Half a pound of mixed French fruit will make a large dish when glazed; choose the best colors, the little green oranges, the red cherries and such fruits as will show through the candy. Cut each piece into smaller ones—a green orange into six or eight, leave cherries whole—and in fact they will serve as a guide for the size of other pieces, cut none smaller than that. Small cubes of bright green citron may be used, and pieces of dried ginger. When you have your dish of mixed fruit ready make the glaze syrup as for the fresh fruit and dip as before. There is one thing to be remembered about clear candy, by which I mean every kind from glaze nuts to butter taffy. It will keep clear and bright only from three to four days, and then it must be in a close box in a warm place (the reverse of cream candies).

Miss House Hunter—I'm afraid this apartment is noisy.
Janitor—Yes, mum, it is; but at your time of life you're likely to get deaf any minute and not notice it.

Proved.
"Your son is a philosophical student, I hear."
"Yes, I believe he is. I can't understand what he's talking about."

Simple.
Knicker—Why do women stand for such gowns?
Mrs. Knicker—Because they can't sit down.

BIG MONEY MADE IN GOOSE LIVERS
PARIS—(Special)—According to consular reports just issued, the goose-liver industry of France is largely on the increase. The small city of Toulouse alone sold 200 tons during 1910 at an average wholesale price of 50 cents a pound.
The geese appear quite satisfied to contract hypertrophy of the liver by overfeeding. Each bird swallows about 30 quarters of maize moistened with warm water and is then relieved of its liver which makes nearly a pound and a half of "foie gras." The treatment lasts six weeks.

The Little Dustman
